Many more anecdotal stories of Life, and few on work, a lot more details of the problems one faces when dying of cancer.

Cancer is a killer. It destroys lives, individuals, and families. Economically devastating. Frightening. Just plain scarring and emotionally devastating.

Read about how it destroyed a strong man. Feel the fear and desolation, the despair as well as the occasional humor of his last days.

Want to read about the long struggle and the great people fighting bladder cancer?

A great deal of humor, anecdotes from life living around the world in the mining business. The good and the bad of it.

Spend a small amount of money and get the true story of hope, pain, humor, death and what it feels like. Macabre? No. Reality. Stark and emotional.

Bladder cancer is degrading, embarrassing, and not fun. It is curable, but it does not get much support or press. Maybe you spending a few bucks to help my wife survive my death will bring me some peace and the disease some notable focus, support, money, and interest.
