If your dog is aggressive or reactive towards other dogs, it could be for a number of reasons. Some are frustrated greeters, some have experienced trauma, some have not been socialized properly, and some just don't speak the language of dog. Whether your dog is “dog illiterate”, frustrated, or they need help learning how to be confident and comfortable around dogs, this book will walk you through how to help them, step-by-step. This book was developed over 6 years of hands on experience during the rehabilitation of my own dog and with assisting my clients with their dog's rehabilitation process. This system walks you through the process of learning theory, reading your dog's body language and anticipating their reactions, accidental contact between your dog and other dogs, and how to introduce your dog to new dogs once you have helped them overcome their insecurities. Using positive reinforcement, coupled with humane corrections and rule changes can make all the difference to your dog when it comes to building a trust and respect relationship between you and your dog. This book will help guide you through the journey of helping your dog change the way they view the world. Even if your dog isn't reactive, this book will give you a deeper and better understanding of training your dog.
